WHERE INNOVATION GROWS

Located at the very centre of the North Cambridge Research and Development Cluster, St John’s Innovation Park lies within the heart of the Silicon Fen.

HISTORY

St John’s Innovation Park evolved on a 21-acre plot of land owned by St John’s College since 1534. The Innovation Centre was completed in 1987 and was the first incubator of its kind in Europe focusing on supporting knowledge-based businesses.

AMENITIES

The Park benefits from a number of amenities. St John’s Innovation Centre has a range of catering options available including the Bistro Restaurant and the Atrium Coffee Shop, whilst the park also benefits from onsite activities and events including Nordic Walking, Kettle Bells, Croquet and Table Tennis. There are also conferencing and meeting facilities available.

SUCCESS

Over the years, numerous prominent companies associated with the Cambridge Phenomenon have started their careers at the St John’s Innovation Park, including Autonomy Corporation plc, Jagex Ltd, Zeus Technology Ltd, Red Gate Software, Owlstone Ltd, Scientia Ltd and Datanomic Ltd, among many others.

HOW TO GET HERE

The St John’s Innovation Park is located to the north-eastern edge of Cambridge, at the heart of the Greater Cambridge technology cluster, in which it plays a pivotal role.

Cambridge is full of cycle lanes, the guided bus way is also a popular route for cyclists. There is ample provision of bike storage at the new Cambridge North station which is a mile away making cycling very quick and easy. The Park has on site bike racks and showers.

By car the A14 is easily accessible to the north, providing excellent connections with the A1, A11 and M11. (Sat navigation: CB4 0WS)

The Mainline rail services run from Cambridge Station and the new Cambridge North Station providing a fast and regular train service to London Kings Cross (approx 45 mins) and Liverpool Street Stations.

Guided Bus connects the villages north of Cambridge and the city centre.

Stansted airport is 25 miles away and Cambridge airport even closer.
